

In 1994, Jim Lynch bought a Hummer and wondered if he was the only person “crazy enough” to want one. He has since learned otherwise.

“On the drive home, I started to realize something – the Hummer was easy to drive, well-mannered and fun; maybe I wasn’t so crazy,” Lynch recalled. “I stopped halfway on my trip home and contacted the manufacturer, AM General, and told them I would like to apply for a Hummer franchise.”

Lynch was awarded that franchise and today, Lynch Hummer is the world’s largest pre-owned and new H1 Hummer dealership and the world’s No. 1 source for Hummer parts. Lynch Hummer has sold more new and pre-owned Hummers than any dealership in the world.

Actually a mini-tank that replaced the Army’s Jeep in the early 1980s and hit the civilian marketplace in 1992, the Hummer first struck the public imagination during Operation Desert Storm, when it was known as the Humvee. Equally at home in the Arctic and the desert, the Hummer can go anywhere.

For the second year Lynch Hummer has sold more pre-owned certified Hummer’s than anyone in the world.

The only dealership whose only business is Hummers, Lynch Hummer’s commitment to Hummers is second to none.

“When you call Lynch Hummer, you will speak with another Hummer enthusiast,” Lynch said. “Every employee has been through intensive factory training and has driven Hummers extensively.”

Total commitment to complete customer satisfaction has consistently earned Lynch Hummer the highest customer satisfaction scores among Hummer dealerships.
