

Varsity Tutors LLC of St. Louis seems to have all the answers these days. Charles Cohn and Michael Goode, Washington University in St. Louis classmates, partnered together to offer tutoring from the smartest students at Washington University. Varsity Tutors offers tutoring at clients' homes in all high school and junior high subjects including calculus, algebra, geometry, trigonometry, chemistry, biology, history, writing and even SAT and ACT prep.

"I realized that some of my friends at Washington University would make amazing tutors. Many had perfect SAT scores; they were friendly, patient, well spoken and reliable; and they had previous tutoring experience", Cohn explained.

"When Charles approached me about launching Varsity Tutors, a new tutoring service that paired the smartest students at Washington University with high school and junior high students, I knew immediately that I wanted to get involved",

Goode explained. With a Masters degree in Cognitive Psychology with a focus on Learning and previous tutoring experience, Goode made the perfect partner for Cohn.

Varsity Tutors has been substantially improving students' grades and test scores at what most consider highly competitive rates given the quality of the tutors. Through a comprehensive interview process, the company has managed to select some of the most brilliant students at the University. Grades and test scores are not the only factors used in tutor selection. Great emphasis is placed on selecting friendly, patient people who can explain complicated material in an easy to understand manner.
